

What is a Youth Rehabilitation Order?

Haringey Youth Justice Service (YJS)

What is a Youth Rehabilitation Order?

- A YRO can be given to you when you have committed an offence (done something that is against the law).
- You may have had a previous Order and now the Court/YJS think you need extra help to stop offending.

What can it include?

- The Court and YJS will decide what activities you need to do to help you stop offending.
- This can include having an electronic tag with a curfew (times you have to be at home) or reparation activities (this means repairing what you have done).
- This can include going to a group programme and doing activities to help the community.

How long does it last for?

- A YRO can last up to three years. If you do not reoffend and work hard with the YJS the length of your Order can be shortened.

Where do I need to go?

- Your meetings will usually take place at 38 Station Road, Wood Green, N22 7BF, or at another centre in the community.
- Your YJS case worker will let you know where. You need to let your case manager know where you feel safe.

Who is involved?

- You will meet with a YJS worker who will talk to you and your parent/carer.
- You will agree a plan to support you with what you feel you need to stop getting into more trouble.
- Your YJS case worker and the Haringey Youth Justice Service are here to help you stay out of trouble.

What are the rules?

- ✓ Follow the rules in your YRO plan.
- ✓ Go to all of your sessions with your case manager and be on time, unless you have a good reason
- ✓ Tell us if you change your address or phone number
- ✓ Be polite to case workers and all Haringey Youth Justice Service staff
- ✗ You must not have any drugs or alcohol before your appointment
- ✗ You must not bring any friends to appointments
